

NICHOLAS BANASEVIC

Biographical Details

Nicholas Banasevic is Deputy Head of Unit in the Information Industries, Internet and Consumer Electronics Unit of the Competition Directorate-General (DG) of the European Commission.

Mr. Banasevic joined DG Competition in 2000. The majority of his time there has been spent on the Commission's Microsoft investigation, where he was one of the team which worked on the Commission's March 2004 Decision. He continues to work on issues relating to the implementation of this Decision. Mr. Banasevic has also worked on a number of anti-trust cases relating to standard-setting.

Prior to joining DG Competition, Mr. Banasevic was seconded by the UK Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) to DG Enlargement of the European Commission for 4 years. Before that, Mr. Banasevic worked in the DTI's Competition Directorate, primarily on EU merger cases.
