Dorset Senior Research Fellowship in Public International Law

The British Institute of International and Comparative Law is delighted to announce the appointment of Dr Andraž Zidar to the Dorset Senior Research Fellowship in Public International Law from 4 January 2012. Dr Zidar, who has degrees from Ljubljana and Padua, and a doctorate from the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies in Geneva, has for the past two years been Director-General for International Law in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Slovenia, and before that served on the Permanent Mission of Slovenia to the United Nations organizations in Geneva.

The Institute is deeply grateful to the Dorset Foundation for its invaluable and continuing support over many years in the area of international law and other aspects of the Institute’s activities.

Public international law has been at the centre of the Institute’s activity since its inception, and continues to occupy a vital and essential role both in international relations and in legal practice across the world. The Institute aims, through its high quality applied research, the organization of accessible events on contemporary issues, and its respected publications, to remain at the forefront of a wide range of issues of public concern in the field of international law. The Institute is particularly pleased to have its Dorset and Watts Fellows as persons with very strong backgrounds in the knowledge and practice of international law.
