

Events

Rapid Response Seminar Humanitarian Intervention, International Law and Syria

Wednesday 11
September 2013
16:00-18:00

The Senate Room,
Senate House,
Malet Street,
London WC1E 7HU

The legal justification for military intervention in Syria given by the British government was on the grounds of humanitarian intervention.

This discussion by leading international lawyers will consider if humanitarian intervention is international law and if it can be applied to this situation.

This is a debate that should not be missed.

For the government legal position visit: <http://bit.ly/1cjMxbB>

Chair

Professor Robert McCorquodale, BIICL

Speakers

- Dapo Akande, University of Oxford
- Professor Sigrun Skogly, University of Lancaster
- Professor Guglielmo Verdirame, King's College, London
- Professor Marc Weller, University of Cambridge

Pricing and registration

	Member	Non-Member
Individual	£10	£18
Full-time Academic	£10	£18
Full-time Student	£5	£18

For further information and to book please visit: <http://bit.ly/17kIU38>
If you have a query, please contact: eventsregistration@biicl.org