Disruptive Competition: What Role for Competition Policy?

This event will address the following:

- New thinking about the interaction between regulation and innovation
- Dealing with regulation for a bygone age
- How does a business model that is a 'platform for disruption' approach regulatory issues?
- When is more regulation actually helpful to innovation?: the example of financial services.

Subject areas covered by this event will include economics, competition law and financial services. The event is aimed at practitioners, economists, academics and government officials.

The event will be followed by a reception.
